The Basic Idea

The MAX-Belt-System has mainly been designed for use with large percussion instruments such as the Surdo and Timba. The objective of the belt is to assist those experiencing problems with the weight and stability of these instruments whilst playing them on the move.

The combination of the belt system components enables even weight distribution at various points of support. In this way certain parts of the body such as the hips are purposely relieved of any strain. This in turn leads to one being able to play the instrument in a relaxed manner without suffering strain to the back. Such an advantage is of great importance to growing youths with the belt system helping to prevent postural impairment.

Example of Suspending the Surdo and Timba

As experience shows the Surdo is mainly suspended from two rods but can also be carried centrally. The first method is better for parades; stability is increased and when walking the Surdo can be pushed with the knees with more ease.

The belt system has proven to be a worthwhile accessory in particular for the Timba with it providing excellent stability, this being a definite advantage during the usual sequence of Samba movements.

The instrument can be fastened by using either two karabiner snap-links or one ring affixed centrally. An exact description can be found in the adjusting-guidelines.

Further details and illustrations can be found on the website.

Why is the New MAX-Belt-System so Original and Ingenious?

Three main advantages make the MAX-Belt-System unique. The belt combination enables a completely new carrying technique.

The Advantages at a Glance

MAXimum flexible adjustability of the complete system.

The belt system can be adapted to all physiques and body sizes. One is able to adjust the system so that it provides relief to either one's back as a whole or certain parts of the body such as a single shoulder or the lumbar spine. In the case of one being sensitive to shoulder pressure, it is possible to provide relief by adjusting the system so that more weight is supported by the hips.

MAXimum comfort due to the breast area being left free.

This belt system designed with an open front not only provides an outstanding feature if used with elaborate band-clothing but is extremely comfortable for female Sambistas because it suits especially their needs.

MAXimum design effectiveness.

The belt system is an elaborate but easy to use construction, is lightweight and has been designed with instruments in mind:

It is an absolute flyweight and extremely easy to slip into. Once it has been adjusted to fit your body you will experience such comfort whilst playing your instrument that you will not like to do without it in the future.

The belt system straightens up the upper part of the body thereby counteracting tension.

Energy and concentration can be focused on the essentials.

Lengthier rehearsals and parades are mastered with ease.

The Highest of Quality.

Everyone should be able to afford the belt system; this has been taken into consideration during the manufacturing process, of course without forgetting the quality aspect. The MAX-Belt-System is a handmade product manufactured with great care, the use of stainless steel, high quality synthetic components and tear-proof material for the belt can be taken for granted. All components have been adapted to carry the heavy weight of the Surdo whilst being played.

A worthwhile investment such as hundredfold experience has shown.

Variations

There are other colours available apart from the standard model in black.

→ A combination of colours is also possible

→ High quality padding is available for even more hip and shoulder comfort.

The Caixa and the Repique can also be attached to the belt. The belt system is also suitable for Djembés.

Standard sizes lie between M – XL. Other sizes such as S (Children) and XXL (For extra large people and belly girth) are also available.
